THE THINGS FROM THE STATES.

LOW ELECTED MAYOR OF GREATER NEW YORK.

Waterloo for Tammany—Croker Abdicates Leadership—Remarkable Republican Gains Elsewhere.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Over half a million voters went to the polls in the city's greatest municipal election yesterday, and by a decisive vote re-elected Tammany Tiger and set the seal of approval on decency and business-like methods in city government.

At 1 o'clock this morning the returns indicated that Seth Low had been elected Mayor by at least 30,000 over Shepard, the Fusion candidate. The returns showed that Low had carried every county in the city except Queens, which was very close. The same returns indicated the election of Jerome (Fus.) for District Attorney, and the entire Fusion city and county ticket, with the possible exception of Oakley, the Tammany candidate for Sheriff, who may pull through with a small majority. Van Wyck, the Tammany candidate for Supreme Justice, and in whose interests the whole tremendous force of the Democratic organization was exerted, won 26,000 votes behind the ticket of women, the people's avalanche of votes, the people's disapproving of Van Wyck's course as Mayor of New York.

Tonight, the entire Tammany "push" is in a state of terror. It is absolutely certain that Low and Jerome, as Mayor and District Attorney respectively, will leave nothing undone to bring every rascally politician in New York to justice. It is expected that the steamers leaving for Europe between now and the time the new administration takes charge of city affairs will be loaded with politicians seeking to escape from deserved punishment for their misdeeds.

Mr. Low and Jerome have declared from the beginning of the campaign that the first official act will be the decapitation of Police Commissioner Murphy and Deputy Devery, whose administration has been a stench in the nostrils of every decent citizen in New York.

It is believed tonight that Richard Croker will leave for England next week, to take up his permanent residence as Squire of Wexford. It is a certain fact that he will be accompanied by a large number of Tammany politicians, whose methods of life will not stand the scrutiny of official investigation. They have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to beat Low and Jerome, and these two will have mercy in landing as many of the political freebooters in prison as possible.

At 12 o'clock last night, the bulletin boards were surrounded by thousands of cheering citizens, rejoicing over the emancipation of the city from the rule of shame. Tonight, every disreputable character of the Red Light District, every reprobate who has profited off the shame of women, is trembling over the judgment to come. Jerome went into the strongest Tammany districts, right into the midst of the lowly who dwell in tenements, and the vote tells of the great results which have been accomplished in arousing the consciences of the fathers and mothers of poor girls against the "cadet system" fostered by Tammany politicians and by which hundreds of young girls were turned into lives of shame each year.

Tonight decency is enthroned in thoroughly successful administration. The people have indicated their decided preference. Not only is it the duty of every good citizen to cheerfully acquiesce in the result, but he should do his utmost to make the result beneficial to the city. All of us—Republicans and Democrats alike—should loyally hold up the hands of those whom the people have chosen in all good work on their part.

"Of course, I regret the result, but trust that the magnificent purposes which those who have elected me and who I have in mind may be realized, even if in a manner different from that which we should have preferred."

"I thoroughly appreciate the efficient work done against adverse conditions by the Democratic organizations in five boroughs. I believe that the faith of the New York Democracy, notwithstanding this temporary defeat, is definitely set for a future of political reform which will at no distant date result to the party merited honor and success."

CROKER CONCEDES DEFEAT.
(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—At 10 o'clock tonight Richard Croker, commenting upon Shepard's defeat, said he could not ascribe it to any one issue.

"The people wanted a change," said he, "and the organization bows to the will of the people. Tammany Hall has been in power for practically seventeen years, and if any one party were to remain in control for too long a period, the tendency would be toward a perpetuation of power, until the result would resemble a monarchy. Tammany Hall has always profited by defeat, and I hope will do so this time."

Croker said that all dissatisfied persons should rebel against the Democratic nominees, and that had done much toward the result. As to his own plans for the immediate future, he had nothing to say. He declared, however, that Low would have the good wishes of the Democracy in his administration.

MAYOR-ELECT LOW'S VIEWS.
(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—About 11 o'clock tonight Seth Low gave out a formal statement, in which he said: "The outcome of this election is a splendid vindication of universal suffrage. From all parts of the city have come the votes that have rebuked the Tammany cry of the last four years, and that have rebuked the people's faith in the Democracy in this country."

In addition to the canvass for Mayor, public interest largely centered in the nomination by the Fusionists of William Travers Jerome for District Attorney, and Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck by the Democrats for Justice of the Supreme Court, who were voted for only in the territory contained in New York county. Returns up to 1 o'clock indicate that Jerome has been elected by a comfortable plurality, and that Mayor Van Wyck has been defeated, the latter having secured only a small majority.

Returns also indicate the complete triumph of the Greater New York Fusion ticket, Charles Vincent Foster, nominee of the Citizens' Union and the Board of Aldermen, over George (Dem.) Van Hoesen, the Democratic nominee. E. M. Grout, for the past four years Democratic president of the borough of Brooklyn, now the Fusionist nominee for Comptroller, has also defeated W. W. Ladd, Jr. (Dem.).

Returns from the local borough and county tickets are incomplete. Complete returns received from Staten Island, however, show that Congressman Murdock has been defeated in his campaign for president of the borough of Richmond by George Cromwell, Fusionist. In the borough of Queens, the election of Joseph Cassidy (Dem.) as president of the borough over Henry (Rep.) and Robert E. Lawrence (Citizens' Union) is conceded. In the boroughs of Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx, additional and possibly official returns will be required to determine the results for borough president and other local officers.

Reports received from the various sections of New York State show that the Republicans will retain control of the lower house of the Legislature, the number of Republican and Democratic Assemblymen not differing materially from the figures of preceding years. In the various municipal contests voted for under the State, the most interesting elections noted were those of Albany, Troy, Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo. The city of Albany was carried by the Republicans, ex-Senator David R. Hill taking no active part in the local canvass.

ELECTION INCIDENTS.
(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—After several weeks of the hottest campaign fighting ever seen in this city over a municipal election, the day when the ballots were cast passed with unwonted quiet, considering the high feeling that had previously been exhibited. There were a few fights at the polls among individuals, but none of a serious nature, and out of the scores of arrests made few prisoners were held by the magistrates.

The great feature of the voting was the early casting of ballots. There was a drizzling rain up to 9 o'clock, but after that hour there was nothing to keep the most ardent voters from the polls. Seth Low, Fusion candidate for Mayor, cast his ballot at 7:35 o'clock a.m. Edward Shepard voted at 11:35 o'clock, and Richard Croker and his two sons were numbered one, two and three at their polling places a minute after 6 a.m. Senator Depew dropped his ballot into the box at 9:15 o'clock a.m., and Mayor Van Wyck waited until 9 o'clock p.m.

The practical use of a voting machine was demonstrated in the Eighth District, Brooklyn, and the result was known at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, immediately after the polls were closed. No difficulty was experienced in recording the vote, and in many instances men cast their votes in less than three seconds.

An incident which attracted attention in New York City was the refusal of the election judges in one district to allow one voter to cast his ballot because he had made a bet of a box of cigars on the result of the election.

Richard Croker read the returns in his home, "the private room" of Tammany Hall. The leader was surrounded by a crowd of men long prominent in the organization, among them John Carroll, deputy leader; Mayor Van Wyck, Corporation Counsel Whelan and City Chamberlain T. G. T. Crane. Croker sat at the press table and listened with his customary lack of expressed emotion as the bulletins were read. From the first they were unfavorable, and the crowd of leaders heard the figures called off without comment. Croker directed that from time to time comparisons be made with the vote of last year. Mayor Van Wyck, who was a candidate for the Supreme Court bench, and who was bitterly assailed during the campaign, was an interested listener as the returns came in.

A cordon was formed which practically shut off Park Row from the head of Beekman street to the bridge entrance, and the streets leading into Park Row at that point were closed. The street cars were stopped at Center street. Crowds such as are seen on the night of Presidential elections surrounded the bulletin boards of newspaper offices. Because of the danger of accidents resulting from the subway excavations near the City Hall, a cordon comprising 500 policemen was on hand.

ELECTION IN TROY.
(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The election in Troy was a lively one, a number of arrests for illegal voting being made. Former United States Senator Murphy headed the fight for the candidate of the Democrats, while Gov. Black managed the campaign for the progressive Democratic-Republican ticket. Daniel E. Conway, the candidate for Mayor, supported by ex-Gov. Black, was easily elected.

In Buffalo the entire city and county tickets were elected, Erasmus C. Knight, the State Comptroller, being chosen Mayor. The result in Rochester was close, but Mayor Warner's friends claim the election of the Republican candidate.

THE WORLD REJOICES.
CROKER'S RULE ENDED.
(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World (Dem.) this morning says: "Government of the people, by the people, for the people, is vindicated and established in Greater New York. Popular rule has prevailed over boss rule, and with a normal Democratic majority of above one hundred thousand has elected Seth Low, Citizen candidate, Mayor, by more than thirty thousand plurality. It is a great triumph, a triumph that means an end to a four-year carnival of corruption. It means the rascals will all be turned out. It means that Murphy and Devery will go, and all the brutal and boodle gang that have based their power on the corruption of the end of Boss Croker."

"Fortunate, indeed, is New York in securing such a man for Mayor as Seth Low. What the World said, October 6, of his letter of acceptance: 'It is like the man himself, candid, sensible, sagacious, strong,' has been true of his speeches in the campaign. In character, temperament, knowledge and experience, it would be hard to find in all the city a man so well fitted for the office of Mayor at this juncture."

"He will go to his task free to serve the people, and them only. He can take the police out of politics, and politics out of the police, and this alone is worth the struggle it has cost to win the election. Again, we shall have 'streets cleaned as Waring cleaned them,' and all the features of decent, honest, respectable, efficient government."

"The fifth of November, 1901, will long be a memorable day in the history of New York. It is almost a clean sweep for Fusion. Seth Low has been elected Mayor by a plurality of about thirty thousand. Brooklyn alone gave him a plurality of 21,500."

"William Travers Jerome was elected District Attorney by a plurality of about eleven thousand."

There he occupied the private secretary when he was Governor, and Secretaries Cortelyou and Loeb. Secret Service and New York detectives also accompanied the train.

Perhaps the greatest surprise of the election, next to the defeat in Staten Island of Congressman Nicholas Muller, who was a candidate for borough president in the borough of Richmond, is the apparent triumph of the county ticket in the old city and county of New York. For Justice of the Supreme Court, Morgan J. O'Brien, Fusionist, defeated James A. Blount, Republican. For District Attorney, William Travers Jerome, Fusionist, defeated James J. McGuire, Republican, by 1200 plurality.

The election of William Travers Jerome (Fus.) over Henry W. Under (Dem.) is admitted by all parties. The office of the sheriff on the county ticket in New York county is still claimed by both parties. John T. Oakley (Dem.) running ahead of William J. O'Brien (Fus.). It may require official count to decide the result.

Returns so far as received from different sections of New York State indicate that the lower house of the State Legislature will be composed of Assemblymen, grouped as follows: Fusionists, 21. Generally speaking, in Greater New York, the Republicans were supported by the regular Republican organization.

ARGUMENTS UNDER WAY.

Hanna Concludes His Feeble Efforts.

Capt. Parker Opens for the Applicant.

Rayner Will Speak Today—Rear-Admiral Invited to Knoxville.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The time of the Schley court of inquiry was entirely devoted today to hearing argument in the case of Rear-Admiral Schley. Hanna finished his argument in behalf of the department, which he began yesterday, and Capt. Parker began, but did not conclude his presentation of the case for Rear-Admiral Schley.

Capt. Parker today considered the "retrograde movement," the bombardment of the Colon, and the charge made against Rear-Admiral Schley of disobedience of orders. He had only reached the coaling question when the court adjourned. Capt. Parker will conclude his speech tomorrow, when Rayner will speak.

INVITED TO KNOXVILLE.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.) KNOXVILLE (Tenn.), Nov. 5.—President Lockett of the Knoxville Chamber of Commerce called upon Rear-Admiral Schley in Washington, and prevailed upon him to accept the invitation to visit Knoxville. Dewey and Hodgson personally urged Rear-Admiral Schley to accept.

PARKER SUCCEEDS HANNA.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Hanna continued his argument when the Schley court of inquiry resumed its session. He took up the question of the coal supply of the "Flying Squadron," and from that entered upon a broader question of the blockade of Santiago, and the reconnaissance of May 31, when the Spanish ship Colon was captured.

Hanna spoke in calm, dispassionate terms, and generally contented himself with pointing out the facts of the case.

In opening, Hanna briefly reverted to the blockade of Santiago, and the purpose of showing that neither the Vireo nor the Merrimack had been the cause of delay on the voyage.

Hanna discussed the "retrograde movement," saying that but one explanation could be given for it.

Hanna contended that while Commodore Schley was acting under the orders contained in dispatch No. 8, when the "retrograde movement" was made, that order was delivered on the Brooklyn May 27, by Capt. Cotton, in command of the Harvard, in one of which it was stated: "All the department's information indicates the Spanish division is still at Santiago de Cuba."

"The department looks to you to ascertain the fact that the enemy, if there be, does not retreat," said Hanna.

"I think I have no subordinate officers who had any right to disobey orders," said Hanna.

"I am sure that they had been assigned, would care to have received such a telegraphic order from a superior officer," said Hanna.

Hanna quoted Rear-Admiral Schley's dispatch of May 31, in which he expressed regret at not being able to obey orders, saying that, as it was written after the Cotton dispatch had been received, it was a most remarkable one to be found in the annals of the American navy.

Hanna contended that the reports to the Merrimack could have been made by the Vireo, without going to Key West, and that the Texas was not in severe straits for fuel, as the Vireo was not a fighting ship and could have been sent for coal. He asserted that the weather was calm on May 31, and that therefore Commodore Schley's assertion that the weather had been bad and that the Merrimack was unable to proceed was unjustified.

Key West was unjustified by the facts. He said the Brooklyn could have remained on blockade duty for two days, and that the Merrimack could have remained on blockade duty for six days, retaining still enough to capture the Colon.

At a point where, by Rear-Admiral Schley's own testimony, he could have captured the smaller vessels in the ports and the larger ones off the coast.

The speaker also controverted the statement in his dispatch that it is not possible to cruise to the eastward of Cape Cruz in the summer months, as the wind was not from the southwest.

Quoting from the dispatch "it is not possible to cruise to the eastward of Cape Cruz in the summer months," he said that the department's orders cannot be obeyed.

Hanna said that the action of Rear-Admiral Schley in abandoning his station off Santiago, thus he himself states, failing to obey the department's orders, created grave anxiety in our national councils.

Taking up the coal supply of the fleet as required by specifications of the precept, Hanna said: "From the point of view of the commanding and other officers of the Brooklyn, the Iowa, the Massachusetts, the Texas, and the other ships of the fleet, the action of Rear-Admiral Schley in abandoning his station off Santiago, thus he himself states, failing to obey the department's orders, created grave anxiety in our national councils."

Specification No. 7 was next considered. This requires an inquiry as to whether every proper effort was made to capture the Colon as that vessel lay in the harbor at Santiago, and referring to it, Hanna said: "Certain precautionary orders, some of them confidential in their character, issued by the department and printed in the records and also in the appendix of the Bureau of Navigation, have been cited as forbidding the exposure of vessels to the fire of batteries, and as justifying Commodore Schley's conduct of the so-called reconnaissance of May 31. Assuming that the substance of these orders was communicated to Commodore Schley by Admiral Sampson on May 27, when the Iowa was at Santiago, it is clear that they have no application to the conditions existing at Santiago on the 31st of May."

Hanna then referred to the ninth specification of the precept concerning the "Flying Squadron" from the vicinity of the harbor at Santiago at night. Of this he said: "It does not appear from the testimony adduced before this court that the vessels of the 'Flying Squadron' were withdrawn from the entrance to Santiago Harbor to a distance at sea, and therefore the extent and character of such withdrawal need not be discussed."

Taking up the blockade of Santiago, Hanna said he did not feel compelled to discuss it, and therefore would content himself with outlining the charge. He said that, beyond the Brooklyn's turn, the battle was not involved in inquiry.

He quoted Capt. Evans of the Iowa and Lieut. Nicholson of the Oregon to sustain the contention that the Texas came to a stop. This he held, was because the battleship was delayed by the collision at this critical moment. The "loop" of the Brooklyn, he concluded, was the only movement of that day which called for any explanation.

Correspondence had been made to avoid the Brooklyn being rammed, as there was no such effort at that time, Commodore Schley said.

Wainwright's testimony to the effect that the Brooklyn's turn left a gap for the Colon to enter, he said.

Hanna also discussed the reported colloquy between Commodore Schley and Lieut. Hodgson, in which Schley was reported to have said: "Damn the Texas." This remark, Hanna said, showed a lack of interest in another ship of the fleet.

He pressed the opinion that there was much to sustain Hodgson's recollection of Commodore Schley's conduct.

Question of the correspondence between Rear-Admiral Schley and Lieutenant-Commander Hodgson on this subject.

Hodgson had maintained that he was dictated by the admiral, said Hanna, and he made the point that in his letter Hodgson had maintained the correctness of his original position.

With his remarks upon this correspondence, Hanna concluded his presentation of the case for Rear-Admiral Schley.

CAPT. PARKER BEGINS.

Capt. Parker, junior counsel for Rear-Admiral Schley, then began his address in support of the latter.

"I doubt," said Capt. Parker, "if the naval history of the world presents, or ever has presented, a case of the importance and character of the case before us so long engaged in. I doubt if a tribunal more exalted in the character of the nation than this, has ever sat in judgment upon a brother officer. I doubt if an officer, with the lifelong character and standing and honor of Rear-Admiral Schley, has ever been displayed, was ever called upon before to ask an investigation of his conduct as a victorious commander of a fleet."

Continuing, Capt. Parker compared the case of Rear-Admiral Schley with that of Lake Erie. There then might have been some foundation, but in this there was no foundation whatever. He said the court had in its wisdom, prevented comparison with other officers engaged in the Santiago campaign.

"Reverend is no accusation here," said Capt. Parker, "nobody is on trial, and yet the case has been conducted as though Commodore Schley were a criminal. He went on, 'in the order of the argument now being made here. We are compelled to consider the inquiry as a trial.'"

Taking up the events of the campaign in their sequence, Capt. Parker spoke of the interview between Rear-Admiral Schley and Commodore Schley at Key West, saying that he would not give Schley's testimony as to this point. He pointed out, however, that Schley was not informed that the Spanish fleet had left the harbor, and that the information had been in possession of this information for three or four days. He then quoted Sampson's orders to Schley.

"I am sure that they had been assigned, would care to have received such a telegraphic order from a superior officer," said Hanna.

Hanna contended that while Commodore Schley was acting under the orders contained in dispatch No. 8, when the "retrograde movement" was made, that order was delivered on the Brooklyn May 27, by Capt. Cotton, in command of the Harvard, in one of which it was stated: "All the department's information indicates the Spanish division is still at Santiago de Cuba."

Correspondence had been made to avoid the Brooklyn being rammed, as there was no such effort at that time, Commodore Schley said.

Wainwright's testimony to the effect that the Brooklyn's turn left a gap for the Colon to enter, he said.

Hanna also discussed the reported colloquy between Commodore Schley and Lieut. Hodgson, in which Schley was reported to have said: "Damn the Texas." This remark, Hanna said, showed a lack of interest in another ship of the fleet.

He pressed the opinion that there was much to sustain Hodgson's recollection of Commodore Schley's conduct.

Question of the correspondence between Rear-Admiral Schley and Lieutenant-Commander Hodgson on this subject.

Hodgson had maintained that he was dictated by the admiral, said Hanna, and he made the point that in his letter Hodgson had maintained the correctness of his original position.

With his remarks upon this correspondence, Hanna concluded his presentation of the case for Rear-Admiral Schley.

CAPT. PARKER BEGINS.

Capt. Parker, junior counsel for Rear-Admiral Schley, then began his address in support of the latter.

"I doubt," said Capt. Parker, "if the naval history of the world presents, or ever has presented, a case of the importance and character of the case before us so long engaged in. I doubt if a tribunal more exalted in the character of the nation than this, has ever sat in judgment upon a brother officer. I doubt if an officer, with the lifelong character and standing and honor of Rear-Admiral Schley, has ever been displayed, was ever called upon before to ask an investigation of his conduct as a victorious commander of a fleet."

Continuing, Capt. Parker compared the case of Rear-Admiral Schley with that of Lake Erie. There then might have been some foundation, but in this there was no foundation whatever. He said the court had in its wisdom, prevented comparison with other officers engaged in the Santiago campaign.

"Reverend is no accusation here," said Capt. Parker, "nobody is on trial, and yet the case has been conducted as though Commodore Schley were a criminal. He went on, 'in the order of the argument now being made here. We are compelled to consider the inquiry as a trial.'"

Taking up the events of the campaign in their sequence, Capt. Parker spoke of the interview between Rear-Admiral Schley and Commodore Schley at Key West, saying that he would not give Schley's testimony as to this point. He pointed out, however, that Schley was not informed that the Spanish fleet had left the harbor, and that the information had been in possession of this information for three or four days. He then quoted Sampson's orders to Schley.

"I am sure that they had been assigned, would care to have received such a telegraphic order from a superior officer," said Hanna.

Hanna contended that while Commodore Schley was acting under the orders contained in dispatch No. 8, when the "retrograde movement" was made, that order was delivered on the Brooklyn May 27, by Capt. Cotton, in command of the Harvard, in one of which it was stated: "All the department's information indicates the Spanish division is still at Santiago de Cuba."

"The department looks to you to ascertain the fact that the enemy, if there be, does not retreat," said Hanna.

"I think I have no subordinate officers who had any right to disobey orders," said Hanna.

"I am sure that they had been assigned, would care to have received such a telegraphic order from a superior officer," said Hanna.

Hanna quoted Rear-Admiral Schley's dispatch of May 31, in which he expressed regret at not being able to obey orders, saying that, as it was written after the Cotton dispatch had been received, it was a most remarkable one to be found in the annals of the American navy.

Hanna contended that the reports to the Merrimack could have been made by the Vireo, without going to Key West, and that the Texas was not in severe straits for fuel, as the Vireo was not a fighting ship and could have been sent for coal. He asserted that the weather was calm on May 31, and that therefore Commodore Schley's assertion that the weather had been bad and that the Merrimack was unable to proceed was unjustified.

Key West was unjustified by the facts. He said the Brooklyn could have remained on blockade duty for two days, and that the Merrimack could have remained on blockade duty for six days, retaining still enough to capture the Colon.

At a point where, by Rear-Admiral Schley's own testimony, he could have captured the smaller vessels in the ports and the larger ones off the coast.

The speaker also controverted the statement in his dispatch that it is not possible to cruise to the eastward of Cape Cruz in the summer months, as the wind was not from the southwest.

Quoting from the dispatch "it is not possible to cruise to the eastward of Cape Cruz in the summer months," he said that the department's orders cannot be obeyed.

Hanna said that the action of Rear-Admiral Schley in abandoning his station off Santiago, thus he himself states, failing to obey the department's orders, created grave anxiety in our national councils.

Specification No. 7 was next considered. This requires an inquiry as to whether every proper effort was made to capture the Colon as that vessel lay in the harbor at Santiago, and referring to it, Hanna said: "Certain precautionary orders, some of them confidential in their character, issued by the department and printed in the records and also in the appendix of the Bureau of Navigation, have been cited as forbidding the exposure of vessels to the fire of batteries, and as justifying Commodore Schley's conduct of France Seizes Ports in Mitylene.

Customs to Be Diverted from Sultan.

Sick Man of Europe Will, it is Thought, Concede the French Demands.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.) PARIS, Nov. 5.—[By Atlantic Cable.]

Admiral Caillaud's squadron arrived off the island of Syra (Grecian Archipelago), yesterday, and detached a dispatch boat, which entered the port of Syra and received from the telegraph station a batch of dispatches containing definite instructions from the French government regarding carrying out the sealed orders which were handed to the admiral, previous to his leaving the coast of Greece.

Admiral Caillaud proceeded to the island of Mitylene, where he will seize the customs of Mitylene and at another point in their way.

The Foreign Office here has not yet received the Sultan's reply to the note presented by M. Baptiste, counselor of the French legation, following out the instructions of M. Delcasse of the Foreign Office, under date of November 4. The correspondent here of the Associated Press is enabled to make the following statement:

When the French government decided to send a French squadron to Turkey, it debated whether to seize the customs at Salonika, Beyrut or Smyrna, as it was believed that the receipts of one of these ports would be sufficient to produce a sufficient sum to pay off the Greek debt.

Salonika, however, was considered inadvisable, because it was a port of call for the British fleet, and the occupation of the port would be a serious blow to the British fleet.

President Ripley of the Santa Fe and party arrived in the city from the North at 8 o'clock last night, in their private car, and took apartments at the Van Nuys. Those who registered at the hotel with Mr. Ripley are: J. W. Kendrick and wife, Paul Morton, E. J. Engle and J. McCarthy.

The visitors will remain here until Friday, and then return direct to Chicago.

Mr. Ripley stated last night that his visit here was of no special business significance. It will simply include a brief inspection of local conditions at this end of the line.

He spoke of the interesting tour just made with Charles F. Lummis through the Pueblo Indian country of New Mexico, and expressed an interest may soon be aroused among the people of the Eastern States in this fascinating section which the Santa Fe traverses.

There was some discussion as to the plan of a reorganization of Tammany. Croker took no part, except to suggest that younger blood be admitted to the inner councils of the party.

The party proposed to Tammany Hall, where John P. Croker is waiting for them. He was apprised of the plan of Croker, but said nothing. He accompanied Croker to the Democratic Club, and going upstairs remained with him for nearly an hour. It was after this conference that Croker announced: "This is my last campaign."

It is now said that Daniel F. McMahon will call on Croker and will be within a week, when Croker will tender his resignation on the motion of Senator Timothy J. Mahan. John P. Croker is now the new leader of Tammany.

"THE FIGHTING JUDGE."

W. T. JEROME HAD FAITH. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.)

LAKELAND (Cal.) Nov. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Travers Jerome, the fighting judge, whose name made him the foremost figure in the New York campaign, said today:

"I have been face to face with thousands of people during the last thirty days, and it has been easy to talk to them because, in all those days, there was always something to me that I thought I must say. When I came home here to my place that I love, perhaps more than any other spot, I realize that you have been with me and sympathized with me. When I went into the fight it seemed to me that I could trust absolutely to the people and trust those things which the words of the great men that I read in books are true. I said to all that campaign, I did not want to hit it whether it seemed to be my good or not. And whenever I saw the head of a man I believed to be a liar, I whacked it. And all of those who trusted to expediency, those who were afraid that truth would hurt, why, boys, if you could have seen the men that came down to my office in Canal street the morning after my Lyric Hall speech—if you could have seen them, it seemed as if all the political forces outside of Tammany Hall were there to ask me why I had dared to attack that winged scoundrel, Thomas C. Platt [laughter]."

"Well, I stepped bullily that night. If you ever have seen a pack of wild hounds around a barnyard, that would have helped them. But I had faith that we were right. I had the faith that Abraham Lincoln had when he put his trust in the plain people. I had faith that deep down in the hearts of the American people, whether German, Jew, Italian, Irish or other nationality, there was pride in American citizenship, and that we could fight the battle out on those lines all through the campaign." [Great cheering.]

ALL BOROUGHS REPORT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—In all the boroughs of New York, with 145 districts missing, the total vote for Governor is: Low, 238,218; Shepard, 228,500.

OHIO.

COLUMBUS (O.) Nov. 5.—The returns today carried Ohio by such means pluralities on their tickets, with such an increased majority in the Legislature, as to call for comments on "what did it?"

The result continues the Republicans in power in the State, making an epoch in its history. It is a triumph for that party in Ohio, and it insures the election of Senator Foraker.

The extent of the Republican success for Governor is the subject of much comment. The fact that the Republican candidate, Charles R. Smith, was not voting to the attitude of John R. McLean, the Democratic candidate, is attributed to the fact that McLean is a member of the National Democratic Committee; to the superior position of the Republican candidate, and to the fact that the Republican candidate, Charles R. Smith, is a man of more than ordinary ability, but he has no experience in public affairs.

Wells, the Republican candidate, is an old office holder, who is the present Auditor. He is an honest man, but in this campaign he has been badly handled by the fact that he was controlled by local bosses.

Tobin, the Democratic candidate, has been Supervisor for two years, and is a young man of good ability. He made a vigorous campaign, but he was slaughtered by the division in his party, more than half the regular Democratic voters for the labor candidate.

Every man who works with his hands, and many old-time Democrats also voted for him in preference to Tobin, who is rich and has a fine attorney. It is probable that the Democratic Board of Supervisors will be elected. Many of them are now in office, and they have proved their honesty and efficiency. With them as a balance wheel, the new Mayor cannot do much harm.

ANOTHER ESTIMATE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—Incomplete returns from today's municipal election indicate that Eugene F. Schmitt, the Union Labor nominee for Mayor, is elected by a plurality of at least 300. Asa R. Wells, the Republican nominee, is second, with Joseph S. Tobin, the Democratic candidate, is a poor third. The Board of Supervisors will be elected. The remainder of the ticket is divided between the Republicans and Democrats.

REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5.—Returns up to 10 o'clock indicate Republican gains in Hamilton, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton, Cincinnati, Portsmouth, Canton, Springfield and other cities, the notable exception being Columbus, the home of Gov. Nash. At 10 o'clock, the Republican, the Democratic candidate for Governor.

The greatest Republican gains are in the large cities. Some of the Democratic counties report the largest gains. A notable exception is the rural district where found in Adams and Adams counties, which jointly elected a Democratic member of the Legislature for the first time in eight years.

At 10 o'clock the Democratic State committee had no claims to make on the State ticket or Legislature. Col. Theodore said he felt better over carrying a Democratic gain of over 3000, than he had been elected Governor.

Chairman De France, who is carrying Franklin county, said today that the Republican majority in the State was over 50,000, with a majority in each branch of the Legislature.

The greatest Republican demonstration here tonight was the return of Toledo, showing that Nash had carried the county, together with the legislative ticket. As Gov. Nash had named the State's representative in the Ohio Centennial Exposition in that city, it was expected that he would lose that county. When the returns were received, after Chairman De France's statement, the Republicans raised their estimates several thousand.

OPENING WESTERN WYOMING FIELDS. CALIFORNIA CAPITAL AND MEN TAKING A HAND. Standard Evidently Believes That Kern Crude Can Be Converted Into First-Class Illuminating Oil - New Flaming Well Starts Up.

California capital and oil men are to play a prominent part in the opening of the Fossil oil fields of Western Wyoming, where there is evidence of a boom. Just across the border, where Wyoming marches with Idaho, are the Fossil oil fields. The district so named is in a northwesterly direction from the town of Fossil, and is about twenty miles in length, and has an average width of about five miles. The Oregon Short Line Railroad cuts through the district about the middle of its length, and at the junction of the two creeks, is the old station of Fossil.

The Fossil field promises to be of great importance, and the oil is of a dark brown color, and of high gravity, between thirty and thirty-two. It is similar in color and gravity to that from the field at Laramie, Wyo., which is a very fine lubricant, and valued at $5 a barrel. Recent tests have proven that the Fossil oil is of a paraffine base, and engineers of the Oregon Short Line say that in its crude state it is a much better quality of lubricant than that furnished by the railroad company.

The depletion of the landscape is the first thing to strike the visitor. "Rolling clay hills surround the valley, and right in front of the station which is at an elevation of about 7000 feet rises old Fossil hill to a height of 710 feet. From its chalky driftdrills have been collected those fossil remains of fishes and prehistoric reptiles which gave the station its name. They are found in every museum and are studied with delight by learned men who are trying to build up a flora and fauna for deep epochs of geological history."

The whole length of the valley of the Snake creek is a line of springs. That mingle oil with their flow. Twenty years ago Senator Clark noted these springs and in 1880 one of them was found to be a natural spring of oil. They got oil, but the well was crooked, and had to be abandoned. Two other attempts were made, but were not satisfactory.

Recently P. L. Griffin, a well-known California operator, examined the territory, and became satisfied that oil in paying quantities would be found there. The searchers went down to the right way. Up to date all developments confirm his theory. The Fossil Consolidated Oil Company has sent a twelve-inch hole 300 feet. The well is three miles from Fossil station, and is near the old Clark spring. According to a letter received by P. L. Griffin of this city, who is largely interested in the territory, the drill is now working in a hard clay, and making good progress. If necessary, the well will be sent down 3000 feet, but indications are that a strike will be made within the next 150 feet.

The first well drilled is that of the Wyoming Paraffine Oil Company, which struck oil about five miles south-west of Fossil. At a depth of 2000 feet the first flow was encountered, and at 150 feet a second stratum was tapped that yielded twenty-five barrels a day. Commenting on this find, the Poncafe Tribune a week ago said: "The strike in the Wyoming Paraffine Oil Company's well is what has given new life to Fossil. The news created some excitement in the town of Fossil Lake, Kemmerer and Boise, and in all over this section of the country. Men are racing to Fossil, day by day to try to get a few locations. Others are going in to look for business locations, and lots in the new Fossil territory are being sold at from $1000 to $2000."

Prominent among other companies organized to prospect and develop the Fossil field is the Inter-Mountain Oil Company, organized by E. L. Doherty of this city. Senator Clark, Senator Kearns, Perry S. Heath and others have joined forces in sinking this well. A rig is now on the ground, and active operations should start early in the middle of this month. The Idaho-Wyoming Oil Company was organized the other day, and the news of the Paraffine company's strike, and within twelve hours practically all the treasury stock of the company was sold. Within thirty days this company will be at work.

C. A. Canfield is another local oil man that is reported to be interested in the new territory. Other companies that are to operate in the Mammoth Oil Company of Poncafe, Ogden-Poncafe, Fossil Oil Association, Kemmerer Oil and Development Company, the Wyoming-Tish Oil Company, Utah-Wyoming Oil and Fuel Company.

STANDARD'S OBJECT. Now that it is evident that the Standard Oil Company has its grip on the Kern River field, the question among oil men is as to what disposal the company will make of the product. Views from the eastern fields show that the supply of light material from which illuminating oil is manufactured is giving out. The idea was at one time prevalent that the Texas and Louisiana fields would insure a continuous supply of raw material, but the oil of the Beaumont field is so bad that it is unfit for refining. But the Standard must have refining material, and many of the northern producers believe that it is the Standard's intention to look to Kern River for that supply, as the company is content that the Kern product can be converted into kerosene.

RIVERSIDE RECORDER VERY SERIOUSLY ILL.

EMERSON GRUWELL SUDDENLY STRICKEN AT HEMET.

Was Recently Married in Los Angeles and is Well Known Throughout This Part of the State—Woman's Long Journey to Wed.

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 5.—[From The Times Resident Correspondent.] Word reached here last evening that E. H. Gruwells, Recorder of Riverside County, who was married last week in Los Angeles to Miss Ednah Tucker, was seriously ill at Hemet, Mr. and Mrs. Gruwells had gone to Strawberry Valley to spend a short honeymoon. There Mr. Gruwells contracted a severe cold and his condition soon became serious. The telephone wires were kept hot last evening, and shortly after 9 o'clock, Dr. Parker, accompanied by Constable Schneider, started on the forty-mile drive to Hemet, arriving at their destination between 2 and 3 o'clock. Dr. Parker returned this morning. He says Mr. Gruwells' condition is not seriously improved, but that he is still a very sick man.

A message was received here this evening, stating that Mr. Gruwells had suffered a relapse during the afternoon, and that his condition is now very serious. The attending physicians have not fully agreed on their diagnosis of the case, and while there are unmistakable symptoms of pneumonia, there are other complications which seem to forecast a fatal issue.

CAME FAR TO MARRY. Antonia Juric arrived here yesterday coming all the way from Austria to marry Joe Zankovich, who lives at Arlington. Joe had written to Antonia to come to Riverside to wed him. Antonia accepted the offer and made the long journey alone, arriving here a day ahead of schedule. Hence Joe was not at the train, and Antonia, who cannot speak a word of English, had to do the best she could in the way of explaining matters at one of the hotels. Joe turned up later in the day and there was a happy meeting. A few hours later they were married.

SANTA BARBARA.

NEW POWER PLANT STARTED.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 5.—[From The Times Resident Correspondent.] All machinery at the new power-house was put into operation for the first time last night. The capacity of the plant is just double that of the old one, and it is one of the finest stations on the coast. All the machinery is new and was made especially for this plant, the chief piece being a 1000-horsepower vertical engine, which does work equivalent to that of six smaller engines in the old power-house. During the day, when no lights are required, a smaller engine is used to furnish power.

They will return in about two weeks, and make their home in this city.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

A serious runaway occurred at 9 o'clock last night on State and Carillo streets. A spirited horse started down the sidewalk, narrowly missing the plate-glass window of the ladies' store. A horse and buggy, in which two ladies were seated, were directly in line of the runaway, and instead of turning aside, the frightened horse tried to jump over the other, between the horse and dashboard. The buggy attached to the running horse landed on top of the other, almost in the laps of the ladies, and the horse, tearing himself free, continued down the sidewalk over a block. It was finally caught in a lively stable. The only damage done was a badly broken wheel on the rig belonging to the ladies. As the owner of the runaway did not show up to help the ladies out of their predicament, and as they had several miles to drive, bystanders removed one of the good wheels from the man's

A London cablegram says Englishmen have been notified with surprise by the bitter resentment caused in Germany by Mr. Chamberlain's casual reference to the Franco-German War. This revelation of antipathetic feeling in Germany strengthens the desire for public peace and the press in London for a settlement of all outstanding questions between England and America. An expression commonly heard is that of a "friendly" American, which is worth more than the closest alliance with Germany.

OXNARD, Nov. 5.—[From The Times Resident Correspondent.] Last night the power was turned on for the first time received from the lines of the Oxnard Electric Light and Power Company. ANTI-GAMBLING LAW PASSED IN SANTA ANA.

TOWN TO BE MADE MUCH TOO HOT FOR CARD SHARPS. Owners of Buildings May Be Punished for Renting to Them—Fund Created for Extension of Waterworks System. New Plan for Drainage.

SANTA ANA, Nov. 5.—[From The Times Resident Correspondent.] One of the most important measures passed by the Board of City Trustees last night was a new ordinance, intended to put a stop to gambling in this city. Since the "sure-thing" gamblers have been driven out of Los Angeles there has been a great influx in this city. A week or more ago the officers began to raid the "joints," charging the gamblers with vagrancy. This action had the effect of scaring many of them out of town and of causing others to refrain from playing the game. The new ordinance provides for the punishment, not only of the gamblers, but of the owners of the buildings in which gambling games are conducted.

PROPOSED DRAINAGE. The City Trustees propose to open a number of streets in the northwestern portion of the city, and provide a drainage system for that portion of the city. Since the cutting down of North Main street, the storm water from the north side, during heavy rains, has come down through town to Fourth street. This has caused considerable annoyance to the residents of the northwestern portion of the city, which has heretofore not had sufficient drainage system to carry off the water. The new ordinance provides for the opening of streets in the northwestern portion of the city, which will provide a drainage system for that portion of the city by affording them access to other parts of the city.

WATER-WORKS EXTENSION. All the receipts from the water-works system will hereafter be set aside to be used in the extension of the system in the near future. In this way it is hoped that a considerable fund will be accumulated which can be used in making further extensions of the system. The water-works system, over and above the expenditures, have been used to defray the expenses of the departments of the city government.

Halloween Party.

One of the most delightful and unique Halloween parties of last week was given at the residence of Miss Florence Hatch, No. 422 North Hill street, by the tenth anniversary of your union. At the time you first entered upon your duties, you found thirty communicants on the rolls, and now there are over five hundred communicants, and the number is constantly increasing. May we not be pardoned for rejoicing that the all-wise Providence, we were led here to become the pastor of this people.

The members of the vestry of each and every guild and society in the parish, and those members who are not enrolled in any of the societies, are invited to formally express to you their recognition of the able and faithful manner in which you have discharged your every duty as priest and rector.

We have often wondered how you have found time to attend to the many demands upon you, both in the parish and out of it, for we are aware of the fact that your ministrations have been much in demand by those not identified with our parish.

It is proper to say a word as to the type of our services in St. John's. As all church people know, with the latitude allowed and exercised, there are some of our communion who like a service characterized by severe plainness; others prefer one ornate in its character, embellished with full ritual and attendant with stately ceremony. Both of these extremes you have avoided and these services in our parish, always reverent, always churchly, always in accordance with the prayer book, have been conducted with a dignity and beauty which have impressed the members of the vestry to worship in St. John's.

Your congregation has viewed with feelings of much pleasure the fact that you possess the esteem and confidence of the clergy and laity of this diocese, and that by them you have not only been called to the position of priest and responsibility in the diocese, but you have been privileged to participate in the proceedings of the last two general conventions of the American church as one of the accredited representatives of this diocese. All of these trusts you have filled and discharged with marked credit to yourself and eminent satisfaction to your constituents.

We regret that on this happy occasional we are not favored with the presence of Mrs. Taylor, the kind and gentle lady, who has so materially assisted you in your work in the parish. She has won a place in our affections, and the message you can bear to her in our united hope is that, fully restored in health, she may soon return to our hearts and homes where a warm and loving welcome awaits her.

With so much to be proud of in the life of the parish in the past, so much to be thankful for in the present, we pledge you our united allegiance in your work among us in the future. We are so loyal as we are tonight. Dear as you have ever been to us, never so dear as you are tonight. All that is good we wish you. Accept this greeting from the people of Saint John's.

At the close of the address Dr. J. E. Cowley presented to the rector, in behalf of the congregation, a pair of massive silver candlesticks, as a token of the respect and esteem in which the congregation held their rector.

Mr. Taylor replied in a few well-chosen sentences, thanking the congregation for their constant evidence of affection and good will; regretting the absence of Mrs. Taylor, and expressing his joy on the present occasion, but rejoicing in the fact that she was steadily gaining health and strength in the hospital, and that he had no doubt that she would soon be able to return to the parish.

He humorously alluded to the significance of the present, and was glad to think that there was a beautiful suggestion in them, inasmuch as when it came to candlesticks, or candles there were no difficulties in his opinion between him and his parishioners. He expressed his sense of gratitude to the congregation for holding up his hands, and that it was evident that they were not yet tired of doing so, although he believed that no other pastor of any denomination now in Los Angeles surpassed him in the length of his rectorship—ten years.

The Bishop also made one of his well-timed and characteristic speeches, in which he spoke of the successful labors of the Rev. B. W. R. Taylor in the parish.

The Reception Committee consisted of Messrs. Cowley, T. L. Winder, Albert Crutcher, H. H. Hyatt, C. Huntley, W. Hadley, E. Lake, H. L. Miller, O. P. Posey, C. E. Price, S. C. Narver, Misses E. C. McCullough and E. M. Lewis; Dr. J. E. Cowley, Judge T. B. Winder, Dr. C. C. Narver, Dr. A. L. Macleish, and Frank A. McAllister. The Refreshment Committee was Messrs. Clifford Page, Willoughby Rodman and Albert Crutcher. The Decorating Committee was Messrs. J. E. Cowley, L. E. Behan, W. H. Thompson, W. W. Winder, the Junior warden, and Mrs. Winder. The clergy of the Episcopal Church of the city, with their wives, were present, together with Bishop Johnson and Mrs. Johnson.

FREIGHT CARS DERAILLED.

Southern Pacific Wrecking Train Sent Out Last Night Because of Accident at El Casco.

A freight wreck occurred last night on the Southern Pacific Railroad at El Casco, a small station in Riverside county, seventy-two miles from Los Angeles, which so completely blocked the track that it was necessary to send the wrecking train from this city.

A west-bound freight train had taken the "sliding at El Casco" to permit a passenger train to pass, and when it came back on the main track the trucks of one of the cars broke in such a manner as to derail it, and several other cars left the track. The cars were heavily loaded and two of them ran off the rails and turned at right angles with the main line, in such a position that the train crew found it impossible to clear the wreck.

The accident happened at such a time that passenger traffic was delayed, all of the trains for the day having already passed over that section of the road. No one was injured.
